

Are you looking for a counsellor, psychotherapist or play therapist for yourself, someone you know or your child?

If so, then you may be wondering how you can find a counsellor, psychotherapist or play therapist that you can trust and who is qualified and experienced.

Introducing The Professional Standards Authority (PSA) Accredited Registers programme

The main purpose of the PSA is to protect the public from harm by improving the regulation and registration of people who work in the health and social care sector. This includes counsellors, psychotherapists and play therapists that work both inside and outside of the NHS.

The PSA requires organisations to meet a minimum set of standards and when they do, the PSA places them on the Accredited Registers programme. The Accredited Registers programme helps you find a professional who is competent and qualified as well as safe and ethical.

Below is a list of the counselling and psychotherapy organisations on the Accredited Registers programme. You can look at each one to find a counsellor, psychotherapist or play therapist who is suitable for you and your needs.
